

INSTRUCTOR

George B. Bruns
Saco, Maine

Bruns is currently a professional trainer and consultant in the field of commercial credit administration and credit policy. In 2007, he retired from TD Banknorth, N. A. where he was Senior Vice President – Senior Corporate Credit Administration Manager. His responsibilities included oversight of credit policy development, the commercial credit analysis functions and credit administration for the TD Banknorth, N. A. banking regions throughout the northeast. A graduate of Dartmouth College (1968) and Harvard Business School (1970), George joined BankBoston in 1970 as a credit trainee and, for fourteen years, served in a variety of specialty and large corporate lending positions. From 1984-1999, he was part of BankBoston's Credit and Special Industries organizations, with responsibilities over the period involving professional education programs; credit policy administration; credit department services; the development of computer network-based support systems for commercial lenders; and administrative support services for BankBoston's agent relationships.
